When requesting certain information from LEMO, LEMO requires the following C ("Company information") from you:

- Company Name
- Contact Name
- Company/Contact Email
- Company Address

Once you choose to provide us with Company information, the Company information will only be used to support your customer relationship with LEMO. LEMO will not sell, rent or otherwise provide your Company information to any third party (except LEMO's Website service providers which shall be subject to confidentiality agreements with LEMO) without your affirmative consent (either in writing or by email).

Information LEMO requests from You

Occasionally, LEMO will request Company information from you so LEMO can provide additional information concerning LEMO products and services. In each such case, you may opt not to receive such information.

Use of Information

LEMO tracks usage while you are using the Website and IP addresses. LEMO uses this information to assess trends, statistics and customer needs, as well as to administer the Website and to diagnose problems that may occur with LEMO's technical facilities.

Use of Cookies

A "cookie" is a small amount of data that is sent to your browser from a web server and stored on your computer's hard drive. LEMO uses cookies to speed your access to various areas of LEMO's Website. Cookies will be used when you request information from LEMO, such as catalogs, technical support, etc. Most browsers are initially set to accept cookies. If you prefer, you can set your browser to refuse cookies; however, if you do so you must manually input your user ID and password to save your search data.

Security

Unfortunately, no data transmission over the Internet or any wireless network can be guaranteed to be totally secure. LEMO cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us and you do so at your own risk. Once LEMO receives your transmission, LEMO uses commercially reasonable efforts to protect its security on our systems.

PRODUCT SAFETY

PLEASE READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY AND CONSULT ALL RELEVANT LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL SAFETY REGULATIONS FOR YOUR APPLICATION. IMPROPER HANDLING, CABLE ASSEMBLY, OR USE OF CONNECTORS CAN RESULT IN HAZARDOUS SITUATIONS.

1. SHOCK AND FIRE HAZARD

Incorrect wiring, the use of damaged components, foreign objects (such as metal debris), and / or the presence of residue (such as cleaning fluids), can result in short circuits, overheating, and / or risk of electric shock. Mated components should never be disconnected while live as this may result in an exposed electric arc and local overheating, resulting in possible damage to components.

2. HANDLING

Connectors and their components should be visually inspected for damage prior to installation and assembly. Suspect components should be rejected or returned to the factory for verification. Connector assembly and installation should only be carried out by properly trained personnel. Proper tools must be used during installation and / or assembly in order to obtain safe and reliable performance.

3. USE

Connectors with exposed contacts should never be live (or on the current supply side of a circuit). Often voltages above 30 VAC and 42 VDC are considered hazardous and proper measures should be taken to eliminate all risk of transmission of such voltages to any exposed metal part of the connector. In medical, chemical, wet or otherwise hazardous environments, or if the product or interface is easily accessible to children, elderly or disabled people, the voltages generally considered "safe" can be significantly lower and additional limits for currents and power may exist.

4. TEST AND OPERATING VOLTAGES

The maximum admissible operating voltage depends upon the national or international standards in force for the application in question. Air and creepage distances impact the operating voltage; reference values are indicated in the catalog however these may be influenced by PC board design and / or wiring harnesses. The test voltage indicated in the catalog is 75% of the mean breakdown voltage; the test is applied at 500 V/s and the test duration is 1 minute.

5. CE MARKING

CE Marking is applied only to a complete product or device, and implies that the device complies with one or several European safety directives. CE Marking can NOT be applied to electromechanical components such as connectors.

6. PRODUCT IMPROVEMENTS

The LEMO Group reserves the right to modify and improve to LEMO's products or specifications without providing prior notification.
